AFROTC Unit To Hold Air Symposium April 24

By DON BLAKE

"Ohio has made a greater contribution to the Air Age, than has any other state in the nation," says Lt. Col. Carl G. Arnold, professor of air science. To point out the achievement made through air progress, the Bowling Green Air Force ROTC Unit will present its First Annual Air Symposium, April 24.

"According to the Wright-Patterson Air Development Center at Dayton, Ohio," says Col. Arnold, "this is the first time that any college ROTC Unit in the United States has undertaken such a project." This Symposium, dedicated to aviation and the Air Age, will present the development and operation of aviation and its contribution to mankind.

Exhibits will be placed in the Circle and the Rec. Hall, where Bowling Green AFROTC cadets will demonstrate them. These exhibits will compose nine categories.

1. Development of Civilian Transport. The development of air transportation from the beginning of powered flight to the use of aircraft capable of circling the globe will be illustrated.

2. Overall Mission of the Air

Force. What the Air Force is, what it does, and what it expects to do in the future.

3. Major Air Commands. The Strategic Air Command, Tactical Air Command, and Air Defense Command, all primarily concerned with our country's defense.

4. Air Rescue. Some of the devices and techniques used to protect and rescue both airmen and civilians.

5. Aircraft Propulsion and Equipment. Integral components of modern air equipment such as jet engines and fuel systems will be described.

6. The Air Academy. This exhibit will cover the entrance requirements, explain the college curriculum, and other important functions of this institution which trains our country's future air leaders.

7. The Air Force ROTC. Some 80 per cent of the Air Force's present officers are ROTC graduates. An exhibit will explain how these cadets are trained in conjunction with their normal college work.

8. The Air Force Association. A nationwide organization composed primarily of civilians, dedicated themselves to the advancement of air power. The AFA display from Toledo will demonstrate the workings of the organization and its aims.

9. Air Force Reserve. A display will demonstrate the organization and function of the Reserve and how it acts as a ready source of trained personnel in the event of an emergency.

Ten men with two convoys of equipment from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base will participate in the Symposium. A B-61 airplane and an F84-D jet on flat-bed trucks will be displayed near the Circle, as well as a cutaway model of a jet engine exhibited in the Well.

The Symposium will formally open at 12:45 p.m. and continue through 9 p.m. Dedication and opening remarks will be delivered by Pres. McDonald at the Circle in front of the Ad. Bldg. This opening will be preceded by formal review and inspection of the Bowling Green AFROTC unit by a Federal Inspection Team in the Stadium at 12 noon. "It is our hope," says Col. Arnold, "that the students will attend the inspection, since the cadets receive moral support when they know they have such backing."

Math Teachers Plan Meet Here

High school and college teachers from all parts of the state will convene at Bowling Green State University on April 20 and 21 for the sixth annual conference of the Ohio Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

Speakers at the conference will include two experts in the instruction of mathematics and arithmetic. They are Dr. Herbert F. Spitzer, State University of Iowa, and Dr. Kenneth Henderson, University of Illinois. Both are former Ohio public school teachers.

Robert C. Clark, Cleveland, public relations supervisor for the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., will give a lecture-demonstration on television transmission. He will explain the use of micro-waves in transmitting television pictures and describe the Bell System's coaxial cable network now being installed across the nation.

Dr. Henderson, a native of Cleveland, will talk on "An Experiment in Teaching Thinking." He taught nine years in Ohio high schools after graduating from Baldwin-Wallace in 1931. He was formerly a member of the faculties at Ohio State University and the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Spitzer, former principal of the Mechanicsburg, O., elementary school, is director of the elementary school at the State University of Iowa. A specialist in the administration of elementary education and in the teaching of arithmetic, Dr. Spitzer will speak on "A Critical Look at Some Current Teaching Procedures in Arithmetic."

Melvin Murray, program director of radio station WFOB, Fostoria, will talk on "Motivation by Means of Contests," at a meeting of the Junior High School Arithmetic and General Mathematics section.

Hosts for the two-day conference are the University's departments of education and mathematics. About 300 teachers are expected to attend the meeting.

Theta Chi, Kappa Sig, PiKA Cop Honors In IFC Songfest

Theta Chi Fraternity, for the second year in a row, won the annual Greek Week Interfraternity Sing Sunday afternoon in the main auditorium. Kappa Sigma and Pi Kappa Alpha placed second and third respectively.

The Sing, attended by an estimated 800 persons, began the Greek Week activities for 1956.

Brigadoon Tickets On Sale Thursday

Tickets for the student production of "Brigadoon" will go on sale exclusively to students Thursday and Friday, April 19 and 20, at the box office in Gate Theatre.

After April 20, the sale of tickets will be open to both students and non-students. It is hoped that the students will take advantage of this closed sale, in order to assure themselves of having good seats for the show, stated Frank L. Meisle, assistant professor of speech.

Box office hours will be 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

WBGU Revises Program Slate

An array of seven new programs are being introduced on station WBGU. Included are two documentary programs, two music shows, and three dramas, according to Sidney C. Stone, station director.

"The Child Beyond," a documentary children's program, is produced by the University of Texas in conjunction with the National Association of Educational Broadcasters. "Poor Little Boy" is the title of the program to be aired at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow. "The Child Beyond" is a series of 13 half-hour programs which explore the problems of the exceptional child in society, his areas of difficulty, and the avenues of adjustment open to him.

The documentary "Tales of the Valiant" can be heard at 6:30 p.m. every Tuesday. The program portrays great heroes of the non-English speaking world.

The two new music programs are "Musical Walk" and "Voices of France in Chorus Sing." The former presents music varying from symphonies to folk music and can be heard at 7:30 p.m. every Friday. The latter, sponsored by the French Broadcasting System, surveys the history of French choral music. It will be aired at 6:30 p.m. each Wednesday.

Capacity Crowds Watch Annual Swan Club Show

A crowd of over 1,000 viewed the Swan Club's annual water show this past week end, at the Natatorium. Extra seats were set up for the overflow of people.

The show opened with "Okla-homa," as the girls surrounded the pool and performed tricks with imaginary ropes. In the water, they executed precision swimming with various routines.

Adding humor to the show, Ralph Eakins, William Muir, John Thompson, and Donald Worsfold, did their version of the hula in "South Pacific." "Brigadoon" added a scotch element to the show with Carol Creason, Sue Disney, Addella Grove, Frances Isch, Marlene McCoy, Elyce Paridon, Eve Williams, and Marlene Worf for doing a watery highland fling.

The four senior women, Miss Isch, Miss Paridon, Miss Williams and Miss Wood went oriental in "Kismet" in their final appearance in a Swan Club show. Something different was added with "Hernando's Highway." Sixteen Swan Club members swam in various formations with lighted candles without one going out. Adding spice to the show was Dave Hamilton, Miss Isch, Don Kepler, and Miss Paridon in a "Guys and Dolls" routine. The "Dolls" were in red, black and white checkered bathing suits and the "Guys" were in checkered vests, all set for a night in the water.

Miss William, Swan Club president, amazed the audience with her difficult routines with a lighted hoop as wide as she was tall. "Battle Cry" another precision swimming routine was performed by the women to the Marine "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

In the finale, the four seniors swam from the end of the pool up to the stage where the rest of the cast were waiting, then the entire cast swam to "Velvet Gloves."

AAUP Talk On Freedom, Friday

Prof. Paul H. Bixler, librarian at Antioch College, will be the speaker at the annual banquet of the University chapter of the American Association of University Professors on April 20. His subject will be "Intellectual Freedom."

The banquet will be at 6:30 p.m., at the Charles Restaurant, according to Dr. Donald C. Longworth, associate professor of sociology, who is in charge of the program. The dinner is open to all members of the faculty, including those who are not members of AAUP. The charge is $2.15.

Mr. Bixler has been librarian at Antioch since 1935. He is also chairman of the editorial board of the Antioch Review and executive secretary of the Intellectual Freedom committee of the American Library Association.

He was on leave from the college in 1949 to serve as staff member for the Study for the Ford Foundation, the group whose report charted the present program of the foundation. He served as president of the Ohio Library Association in 1948-1949, and was a member of the ALA Council, 1948-51.

A graduate from Hamilton College, Mr. Bixler received his master's degree from Harvard. He is also an alumnus of the School of Library Science of Western Reserve University, receiving his degree from there in 1933.

Mr. Bixler is a former reporter on the Cleveland Plain Dealer and Press.

News, Adviser Lauded At OCNA Conclave

The thirtieth annual Ohio Collegiate Newspaper Association convention at Steubenville was concluded Saturday night when the presidency of the Association was turned over to Bowling Green. The gavel was given to Brad Greenberg, editor of The B-G News, who will be president of the association for the remainder of this year. Next year's editor will assume the presidency until the next spring convention.

The B-G News received the second place award for the best college newspaper in Ohio being published twice weekly or more often. Miami University received first place and Ohio University took third place in this general excellence of newspaper category.

First place for the best news story of the year was awarded to Greenberg for his story on John Denn, a former ROTC instructor of the University who was indicted for murder last December.

Marvin Megison took third place in the best feature story division. The story was about Betsy Barker, the Danforth Graduate at the University, who participates only in the religious activities of the campus instead of attending classes.

Patsy Smith received honorable mention in the best advertising layout division for her Hamlin Cleaners ad. James Miller's photo of Jack Michael doing a back-jackknife in the Oberlin Swim meet received honorable mention in the best photograph contest. The B-G News was awarded honorable mention in the best public service campaign division for its stories and editorials on the Ohio school bond issue for state-supported schools.

Robert A. Steffes, assistant professor of journalism and adviser to The B-G News, received an award of merit from the association "for outstanding achievement in the field of journalism and for extraordinary service to the Association." Mr. Steffes has served for the past two years as a member of the Board of Directors to the OCNA. He is leaving the faculty this year and will resume teaching here in September, 1957.

Prexy Explains Boost For Dining Facilities

By ANN BLACEMAR

Pres. Ralph W. McDonald told a group of fraternity and sorority representatives, head residents, and administrative officials Friday afternoon, the increase from $270 to $290 a semester in board-and-room rates, effective beginning the second semester of next year, is "inescapable" to enable the University to meet actual expenses of providing adequate residential and food services for students.

The president explained that the effect of this increase upon students taking their meals in the fraternity and sorority houses will be an additional charge of $20 per semester to help pay the cost of their kitchen and dining room facilities provided by the University.

President McDonald pointed out that the University last year sustained a deficit of more than $21,000 in providing the 17 houses used exclusively by the fraternities and sororities. He reported that the University's expenses in providing the houses were $123,397.17 and the students living in these houses paid the University $101,869.46. The University has heretofore provided kitchens, dining rooms, and fixed equipment for food service in these houses without charging the fraternity members anything to help pay the extra cost of such facilities.

Since these houses cost the University approximately twice as much per student as regular dormitories, the extra cost should be borne by the fraternity members who enjoy the benefits of the houses. Heretofore, he stated, the University has had to drain its resources from other dormitories and state appropriations to help pay the greater cost of providing kitchen and dining facilities for the fraternities and sororities. With the additional funds derived from the $20 use charge for each student receiving board service in a fraternity house, the University hopes to secure sufficient income from the fraternity and sorority members to cover the actual cost of the houses provided by the University.

The increase in rates from $270 to $290 a semester for regular board-and-room students includes the same per student charge to help pay for kitchen and dining room facilities the University is providing or constructing for students in other residence halls on campus.

"The $290 board-and-room rate will still be much lower than the rates in comparable state universities in this region, thanks to the effective planning and financial policies of our Board of Trustees," Dr. McDonald stated.

The president provided some background information to simplify understanding of the increase, which he said is part of a long-range program which eventually will provide better housing for all students at low cost.

The University has invested $1,147,262 in constructing a new building for 17 houses exclusively occupied by fraternity and sorority members. President McDonald stated. This excludes two sorority houses which also hold independent women, and does not include maintenance and repair costs. Since prices have risen considerably since the first houses were built, the president added, replacement costs today would be much higher. A total of 460 stu-

Intellectual Freedom

Friday's meeting of the University chapter of the American Association of University Professors with the main speech titled "Intellectual Freedom," merits unusual interest because of recent dissension in the national organization concerning academic freedom.

The group took a swipe at eight of its member colleges by censuring them for dismissing faculty members who took refuge behind the Fifth Amendment or for remaining silent while under fire for possible Communist affiliations or sympathies.

The University of California, Ohio State, Rutgers, Temple, Oklahoma, St. Louis University, North Dakota Agricultural College, and Philadelphia's Jefferson Medical College were promptly censured by AAUP after the organization decided dismissal on such grounds was unfounded.

AAUP decided that the only grounds for firing a teacher is to prove his unfitness as a teacher because of "incompetence, lack of scholarly objectivity or integrity, serious misuse of the classroom or of academic prestige, gross personal misconduct, or conscious participation against the government.

The special eight-man committee which made this revelation added that their stand might not be legal. Their decision means that a school would not have the right to fire a faculty member who admits to being a member of the Communist Party, unless he was proved unfit as a teacher.

The reaction of the censured schools was varied with some walking out, and most bitterly attacking the AAUP.

Professor Bixler of Antioch College will discuss intellectual freedom Friday before faculty members, and the occasion might give the local chapter an opportunity to study the actions of its national group which censured the eight schools after allowing them a mere ten minutes for defending themselves.

University Recognized

Recognition came to Bowling Green State University Saturday at the 30th annual Ohio Collegiate Newspaper Association convention in Steubenville with its selection as president of the group. The delegates who met to elect their leaders for the remainder of this year and next did not vote for individuals.

Rather, they elected the school which they wished to have as president and vice-president, and allowed the college elected to choose the individual for the position. The editor of the college selected serves in the capacity for the remainder of the year, and his successor takes over until the next convention.

The News' adviser, Robert A. Steffes, was recognized for his service to the association, and justly so, as a retiring member of the board of directors. The recognition came at an opportune time, for Mr. Steffes will do post-graduate work next year outside of Ohio, and will have to sever his work with OCNA temporarily at least.

Brigadoon Accident Rate High; Convention-Bound Cars Waver

BY BRAD GREENBERG

Besides including the largest cast probably ever used in one University Theatre production, Robert Richey, director of Brigadoon, to be presented in less than two weeks, reports that the accident rate is increasing.

At its Thursday night rehearsal, Audrey Rush was taking Doug Cotner to her hut in the Scottish highlands when a grand piano met them on the road, with Cotner retreating to the hospital with a sprained back and bruised knee.

Later that night, Jerry Ammons stomped on Shirley Brechmacher's ankle, making one more casualty.

And finally, one of the principals in the cast was stumbling around the stage, trying to make it without his glasses, and was stopped four times just short of walking off the stage, right above a large kettle drum.

Steubenville College played host this week end to better than 20 Ohio college and university newspaper staffs for a thirtieth convention. Steubenville, as a city is reputed by some to be the oldest community in Ohio, and on the opposite end of the scale is the college, which is but 10 years old.

Three cars of Staff members left Thursday via the Ohio Turnpike, making the journey most comfortable. Whereas the adviser's car was passed with a flat tire on the way to the convention, ours had the same misfortune Sunday on the return trip.

It was this car that traveled 3,000 miles to and from Florida during spring vacation with no misfortune but fell down on a 200-mile trip in Ohio.

The third car did not start just before we left to come home. It had been parked on one of Steubenville's common hilly streets, and the gas had retreated to the rear of the car, and it had to be straightened, so enough came forward to start.

Main speaker for the final banquet was editor of the Steubenville Herald-Star, who knew that the presentation of awards was to take place after his speech. He spoke for 10 minutes, and was rewarded with one of the loudest ovations heard in quite a spell.

Jim Gordon, News photog, took 25 pictures of Les Wagner, sports editor, eating the banquet meal. Gordon may be contacted for a showing of the pictures.

Greek week is being heralded as one of the biggest yet. With a great college band, banquets, dinners, sings, etc., all concerned with the planning, organizing, staffing, and coordinating of the week deserve endless thanks. It has taken between four and five months for the work on the week, and is indicative of what a proper can be.

dents now live in these residence halls.

In six other permanent dormitories, Ivy, Shatzel, Kohl, and Williams Halls, Rodgers Northwest, and Rodgers Northeast, the University has invested only $1,065,142. These six dormitories house 900 students.

Pres. McDonald told the group that the University now can construct dormitories with satisfactory living and study conditions for all students for an annual cost of $140 per student over a 40-year period, to pay off principal and interest. This rate applies to dormitories without food service facilities. For residence halls with food service units, $180 per year from each student is necessary to pay the debt in 40 years.

The University also plans to enlarge and improve present food service units in fraternity and sorority houses and provide a separate service unit for Rodgers Quadrangle, the president explained.

Because improved living conditions should bring about better educational opportunities, the president explained, the number of occupants in the fraternity and sorority houses will be decreased second semester of next year. He cited a planned decrease for the smaller sorority houses of from 35 to 20, from 70 to 55 for the two larger houses, and a corresponding reduction for fraternity houses on the row.

When enlarged dining room facilities in the houses are completed all Greeks should be able to eat in their houses, Dr. McDonald stated. He said the exact date these improvements could be made could not yet be determined, but named the summer of 1957 as the hoped for time.

ADVENTURES IN SOCIAL SCIENCE: NO. 3

Today, ranging again into the fascinating world of social science, let us take up the subject of anthropology—the study of man and his origins.

The origin of man was indeed a vexing question until the Frenchman, Jean-Louis Sigafoos, discovered the skull and shinbone of Pithecanthropus Erectus in Java in 1891. (What Sigafoos was doing in Java is, incidentally, quite an odd little story. Sigafoos was a Parisian born and bred. By day one could always find him at a boulevard cafe, sipping Biere de Racine and ogling the girls; each night he went to a fashionable casino where he gambled heavily at roulette and jacks; in between times he worked on his stamp collection.

(Well sir, one summer Sigafoos lost his entire fortune gambling at the casino, and he was seriously contemplating suicide when a ray of hope appeared in an unexpected quarter. It seems that Sigafoos, through the international stamp collectors journal, had long been in correspondence with a girl in Java, a mission-educated savage named Lotus Petal McGinnis, herself an enthusiastic stamp collector. The nature of their correspondence, though friendly, had been entirely philatelic. Now, suddenly, a new kind of letter came from Lotus Petal. She declared that although she had never laid eyes on Sigafoos, she loved him and wanted to marry him. She said she was eighteen years old, beautiful, and her father, the richest man in his tribe, would give half his fortune to the husband of her choice. Sigafoos, in his reduced circumstances, had no alternative; he sold his last few belongings and booked passage for Java.

(The first sight of his prospective bride failed to delight Sigafoos. She was, as she said, beautiful—but only by local standards. Sigafoos had serious doubts that her bright red pointed teeth and the chicken bones hanging from her ear lobes would be considered chic along the Champs Elysees.

(But sobering as was the sight of Lotus Petal, Sigafoos had an even greater disappointment coming when he met her father. The old gentleman was, as Lotus Petal had represented, the richest man in his tribe, but, unfortunately, the medium of exchange in his tribe was prune pits.

(Sigafoos took one look at the mound of prune pits which was his dowry, gnashed his teeth, and stomped off into the jungle, swearing vilely and kicking at sticks and stones and whatever else lay in his path. Stomping thus, swearing thus, kicking thus, Sigafoos kicked over a heap of old bones which—what do you know!—turned out to be the skull and shin of Pithecanthropus Erectus.)

But I digress... From the brutish Pithecanthropus, man evolved slowly upward, growing more intelligent and resourceful. By the Middle Paleolithic period man had invented the leash, which was a remarkable technical achievement, but frankly not terribly useful until the Mesolithic period when man invented the dog.

In the Neolithic period came far and away the most important development in the history of mankind—the discovery of agriculture. Why is this so important, you ask? Because, good friends, without agriculture there would be no tobacco, and without tobacco there would be no Philip Morris, and without Philip Morris you would be without the gentlest, mildest, sunniest, pleasantest, happiest smoke that money can buy, and I would be without a job.

That's why.

©Max Shulman, 1956

To their Neolithic ancestors, the makers of Philip Morris extend a grateful salute. And so will you when you try today's new gentle Philip Morris in today's new pack of red, white and gold.

Power Conduit To Connect Buildings

An underground power conduit that will connect the Maintenance Bldg. and Kohl Hall with the Wooster St. power lines is now being laid along Kohl Drive.

The conduit will bring electrical service to Kohl Hall and telephone service to the Maintenance Bldg. for the new switchboard to be installed there this summer.

This conduit will eliminate the need for the line poles now carrying these services, said Charles L. Coddling, head of the maintenance department.

The project was started March 29 and should be completed sometime this week, Mr. Coddling said.

650 City Students Attend Concert

Approximately 650 Bowling Green area elementary school students attended a special children's concert presented by the University Symphony Orchestra on April 11.

The children were students from the South Main, Ridge, and University Elementary Schools. Some of the children were accompanied by their parents.

The program opened with the children singing "America the Beautiful." Other numbers included "March from E Flat Suite" by Holst, "In the Hall of the Mountain King" by Grieg, "Perpetual Motion" by Strauss, and excerpts from Bizet's "Carmen." The concert closed with variations on Callet's "Pop Goes the Weasel."

Between numbers, demonstrations of different musical instruments were given by Seymour L. Benstock, conductor, with the assistance of orchestra members.

This special concert was a combined effort of the University music department and the elementary school music departments, stated Mr. Benstock.

Wayne Overwhelms Falcons, 14-3; Encounter Baldwin-Wallace Today

The Bowling Green Falcons opened the baseball season last Saturday by playing host to the Tartars of Wayne University. Wayne, who did not act anywhere near the way guests are supposed to, blasted the BG hurlers for 14 runs and 13 hits as opposed to the Falcons output of 3 runs and 7 hits.

The starting pitchers for the opposing nine were John Lord, a 6' 2" 160 pound sidearm for Wayne, and Fred Price, mainstay of the Falcon pitching corps.

Wayne Starts Early

The first inning keynoted the trend the whole game would take as Don Halverson, leadoff man for Wayne and a .321 hitter, grounded a single through the box on Price's second offering. Fred Snowden followed with a walk and both runners advanced as leftfielder Tom Keller grounded to second. A Texas League double to center scored Halverson and runners stopped, temporarily, at second and third; temporarily because George Duncan promptly singled to right to score them both.

The Falcons retaliated with two runs in the bottom half of the initial inning. Glen Matter reached first, due to the Wayne second baseman's error on his grounder and, after Wayne Schake struck out, advanced to second on Fred Hansen's bloop single to left. Successive singles by Dick Kenny and Bill Carlson scored Matter and Hansen, and thus put an end to most of the Falcon scoring for the afternoon.

Second Inning

The second inning did not bring an end to the Wayne scoring. They scored two runs on but one hit. Ray Herndon, Tartar backstop, walked to start the inning and advanced to second as Price allowed Lord's bunt to elude him a bit too long. At this point coach Steller decided Price had had enough for one day and replaced him with a little left hander, Ted Johnson. Bill Carlson let one of Johnson's pitches get away from him and the runners went to second and third. Things looked brighter for the moment as Johnson struck out Halverson and got Snowden to fly short to left. However, two runs scored as Tom Keller singled to right, and at the end of two innings the score read Wayne 5, Bowling Green 2.

Scoreless Innings

The third and fourth innings were scoreless and did not bring any hint of the six run avalanche to come in the top of the fifth on only three hits. Fred Snowden's single and Tom Keller's walk was followed by Ed Williams perfect sacrifice which advanced the runners to second and third. George Duncan, the number five hitter in the Tartar lineup, added two more RBI's to his total as he singled past third baseman Hughes. Roy Hertenstein walked but he and Duncan didn't stay on the basepaths long as Al Oshensky's triple brought both of them home. Bob Purvis replaced Johnson and promptly walked the first man to face him, Ray Herndon. One of the four BG errors occurred at this point when Herb Smolka allowed Purvis' pickoff attempt to get away from him. The error advanced Herndon to second and scored Oshensky. Another error brought Herndon home with the sixth and final tally of the inning.

Final Tally

The Falcon diamonders got their third and final tally in the bottom of the eighth against Clarence Straughn, who replaced Lord, who went to left. Dick Kenny walked to open the inning and Bill Carlson singled him to second. Hughes' long fly moved Kenny to third and Jerry Schoonover, who had singled for Herb Smolka in the sixth, walked. Jim Bryan, of football fame, batted for Reg Eden

Findlay Invades BG Tomorrow

The Bowling Green track squad will meet the Findlay College thin-clads on the BG oval, Wednesday, April 18, in the second meet of the season. Field events get underway at 3 p.m., while the running events begin at 3:30. The Falcons, lacking talent in some events, are expecting to score heavily from veteran MAC stars Carlos Jackson, Floyd Lennox and Herb Moorehead.

At the starting line will be Lennox, Jackson, Jerry Noss, Bob Smith and Bill Spencer in the 100-yd. dash, the 220-yd. dash and the 880-yd. relay; Ted Thomas and Jerry Webb in the 440; Jack Mortland and Bob DeLaRonde in the 880; DeLaRonde in the mile; Dan Duricy in the two-mile; and Lennox, Noss, DeLaRonde, Martland, and Thomas in the mile relay.

In the high hurdles will be Max Chapman, Bill Gibson, and Ed Janeway; Moorehead, Chapman, Gibson, and Janeway in the low hurdles; Max Kaebler, Webb, and Mark Covert in the pole vault; Janeway, Leigh Klingensmith, and Mortland in the high jump; Moorehead and Jackson in the broad jump; Dick Luehrs, Carl Schorr, Paul MacDonald and Dean Bacon in the shot put; and Hecker and Bacon in the discus.

Last year, the squad took a third place in the MAC, competed in the All-Ohio Meet, and the Ohio, Drake, and BG Relays. The team posted a four-win one-loss record for the season.

Broncos Make Clean Sweep Of Falcons' First Tennis Attempt, 9-0

The defending champion Western Michigan Broncos invaded Bowling Green Saturday, and rode off with a clean sweep of the tennis match, 9-0. On Friday, the Broncos had done the same thing to the Toledo Rockets.

Broncos Won 6

So far this season the Broncos have won 6 out of 7 matches, losing their only game to Vanderbilt. The Western Michigan coach said that the rest of the season would be rough, with such teams as Notre Dame and the University of Michigan scheduled.
